

Minor Injury Units

at Nevill Hall, the Royal Gwent, Ysbyty Ystrad Fawr and Ysbyty Aneurin Bevan hospitals

Adults and children over one year old with a wide range of injuries can be treated at our Minor Injury Units. These units are run by an experienced team of highly skilled specially-trained emergency nurse practitioners, triage nurses and health care support workers. You can visit one of our units for:

- Limb injuries, which include broken bones (fractures) and dislocations to fingers and toes
- Wounds, grazes, & minor burns
- Head injuries, provided there is no loss of consciousness or the patient is not taking blood thinning drugs
- Face injuries, provided there is no loss of consciousness
- Minor neck and back injuries, provided that the patient is mobile, has no pins and needles in arms or legs and has not fallen from a height greater than five stairs or 1m
- Eye, ear and nose injuries and foreign bodies
- Rib injuries
- Insect, animal and human bites

And the following can be provided:

- Access to x-rays for injuries
- Wound closure including stitching & gluing
- Application of dressings
- Application of plaster casts, splints, strappings and slings
