I would like to know what diagnostic checklist is used to assess and diagnose adults with suspected ADHD.

The Health Board does not use diagnostic check lists for the purpose of diagnosis. The consultant undertaking the assessment uses the ASRS111 checklist to guide the severity of an individual's condition.

I'm requesting this information to find out if a private diagnosis will be accepted by the health board in order to start with NHS treatment for ADHD.

The Health Board accepts privately diagnosed patients however, an assessment will still be required as it is the prescriber's responsibility to be confident that the diagnosis is correct.
